PRNewswire-FirstCall
BIRMINGHAM, Ala.

HEALTHSOUTH Corporation today announced that it had made several changes in responsibilities among its senior management team. Effectively immediately, Richard M. Scrushy, Chairman of the Board of HEALTHSOUTH, will resume his role as Chief Executive Officer of the company, a position he held from the inception of the company until August 2002. William T. Owens, currently Chief Executive Officer of HEALTHSOUTH, will resume his prior duties as Chief Financial Officer, and current Chief Financial Officer Malcolm E. McVay will devote his full time to serving as Treasurer of the company, focusing on banking, capital markets and investor relations matters. Operating division presidents Patrick A. Foster, Larry D. Taylor and Daniel J. Riviere will continue in those positions and will report directly to Mr. Scrushy.

"We have been carefully reviewing our management structure since we announced the suspension of plans to split off our surgery center division in October," said Scrushy. "Our Board of Directors and I believe that the changes we are announcing today will enable us to provide stronger and more effective leadership in the finance area in response to today's demanding environment."

Scrushy continued, "Bill Owens served as Controller, Chief Financial Officer and Chief Operating Officer before becoming Chief Executive Officer in anticipation of the surgery center transaction. His extensive knowledge of both the financial and operational sides of our business will help us meet the challenges of maintaining a sound financial structure in these complex times. Tadd McVay is highly respected for his experience in the capital markets and investor relations areas, and we believe that is important to our company for him to focus his full attention on those aspects of our work. We are grateful to these two leaders for taking on these responsibilities, and I look forward to continuing my active involvement in both day-to-day management and long-term strategy as Chief Executive Officer, working with Bill, Tadd and our outstanding division presidents. In addition, we expect to make further announcements in the near future about new corporate governance initiatives aimed at strengthening HEALTHSOUTH's commitment to strong, effective board and management leadership."

Owens added, "When Richard and the Board asked me to take over the Chief Financial Officer role again, I was honored to take on this new challenge. I have been involved in finance and accounting for HEALTHSOUTH for nearly 17 years, and I believe that this is the area in which I can make the greatest contribution to the continuing success of our company. Working as a team with Richard Scrushy and Tadd McVay, I believe I can help make sure that we maintain a disciplined financial strategy, with strong internal controls and the level of disclosure that the market demands today."

"In the current environment, our relationships with the capital markets and our investor base are vitally important, as is the strength of our balance sheet," said McVay. "In my role, I will focus my time on working with our bank group and the capital markets to ensure that we continue to have a capital structure that appropriately supports both our current operations and future growth, as well as continuing to strengthen our investor relations program. I am pleased to have the chance to concentrate on these areas, where I believe I can play a significant role for the future of HEALTHSOUTH."

John S. Chamberlin, an independent member of HEALTHSOUTH's Board of Directors, stated, "The Board believes that the changes we have made today will strengthen HEALTHSOUTH and ensure that we have the best team in the best roles for the company's needs today. We have continued confidence in Richard Scrushy's leadership, and we believe it is important for him to step back into the Chief Executive Officer role. At the same time, we believe that the new positions for Bill Owens and Tadd McVay will allow them to give their full time to the areas where their strengths and knowledge can best serve the company, and we thank them for their willingness to take on these responsibilities."

As previously announced, HEALTHSOUTH has engaged two nationally recognized search firms, The Directorship Search Group and Spencer Stuart, to assist it in identifying potential new independent candidates for the company's Board of Directors.
